Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 and 15-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Specification

The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-13 and 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wong (US Patent No. 6,115,690).

Wong teaches all the limitations of Claims 1-13 and 15-20. For example, Wong discloses systems and methods of optimizing a product order where the product includes at least one customer-selectable component, comprising the steps of receiving the product order, determining component information of the at least one customer-selectable component included in the product of the received product order, the component information including component availability in real-time by querying a manufacturer system and in response to a component being unavailable at the manufacturer, querying at least one supplier system in real time that can supply the component to the manufacturer, and offering the customer at least one order option in real time based on a result of the determination (see at least column 4 lines 7-52, column 15 lines 30-49, Fig. 24). Wong further discloses:

- component information including cost of alternative component, delivery lag time to manufacturer if product is only available from a supplier, and product delivery lag time and cost for different manufacturing sites: (see at least column 13 lines 45-59, Figs. 7A-7C, 24-38).
- at least one option is selected from between offering the customer an alternate component, removing a component from the order, selecting a manufacturing site, and ignoring the at least one option: (see at least column 13 lines 45-59, column 14 line 61-column 15 line 8, Figs. 7A-7C, 13, 27).

- determining an appropriate supplier that can fulfill an order for a component that is unavailable at the manufacturer, and placing an order for the unavailable component with a system of the appropriate supplier (column 19 lines 25-47, column 25 lines 27-37, Fig. 62).
- scheduling at least one of a product delivery schedule and a component delivery schedule with a shipper system (see at least column 16 line 61 – column 17 line 20, Figs. 23, 64, 67).
- allowing the customer to choose an available manufacturing site based on at least one site factor: where site factor could be cost, component selected, proximity of required supplier to manufacturing site, proximity of manufacturing site to customer ship-to location, manufacturing site capacity, and existing component inventory at manufacturing site (see at least column 14 line 61-column 15 line 13, Figs. 7A-7C, 13, 27); confirming customer produce fulfillment conditions, supplier order and ship information, or shipper scheduling (see at least column 13 line 60 – column 14 line 15, column 24 lines 3-15, Figs. 7-9).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
